CONVICT TO BE TAKEN BEFORE HIGH TRIBUNAL

California Judges In Favor of Hearing Man Jailed For Bombing.

BY JAMES ADAMS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—It appeared almost a certainty today that Warren K. Billings would be ordered brought before the California Supreme court, now hearing his renewal application for a pardon.

Billings, with Tom Mooney, is serving a life term in prison for the San Francisco Preparedness Day bomb outrage in 1916 which cost 10 lives.

The court promised a ruling during the day on a demand by his attorney, Edwin McKenzie, that Billings be released from Folsom penitentiary to testify in his own behalf.

The majority of the seven justices seemed in favor of this. McKenzie wanted Billings present to refute the amazing testimony given by Estelle Smith, one of the prosecutor's principal witnesses at his trial.

If so ordered, Billings will probably appear Monday. The court has announced it will adjourn over the week-end.

Billings, never outside prison walls in 14 years, is anxious to tell all he knows, according to McKenzie.

Like an apparition from the past came the garrulous, buxom Mrs. Smith unexpectedly into the pardon hearing.

And immediately she electrified the courtroom by repudiating statements and affidavits she had made in the last 13 years tending to exonerate Billings of any connection with the bombing. She told the seven supreme justices her original story pointing Billings as the man she had seen with a suitcase on the afternoon of the explosion on July 22, 1916.

It was a suitcase similar to the one John MacDonald confessed perjurer against Mooney and Billings, claimed he saw left at the scene of the blast.

Mrs. Smith, though, injected a new phase into the case, which added to the bewilderment of the dazed attorneys and judges, who have listened since Tuesday to a mass of contradictions and glaring discrepancies.

She declared that Billings had revealed himself to her as an acid squitter and not a dynamiter.

She said he admitted that his method was to squirt a corrosive acid from a pocket syringe on automobiles parked along the street. She quoted him as saying that he had been hired by the machineists' union to damage automobiles and thus force employers to take back striking mechanics to repair them.

"Billings told me that he had in the suitcase I saw him with, only bottles of acid to replenish the syringe," said the witness. "And I believe him."

The prosecution contended at the Billings-Mooney trials that the suitcase contained a time bomb.

Tomorrow afternoon in Sacramento, Gov. C. C. Young and the members of his pardon advisory board headed by Lieut. Gov. H. L. Carnahan will question John MacDonald in connection with Mooney's appeal for a pardon.

GROUP ADVISES LOW PENALTY

Welfare Commission To Ask
Minimum Sentences To Reduce Pen Crowding.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 1.—That the state welfare advisory commission, in its forthcoming report to Governor Myers Y. Cooper, will recommend the reduction of minimum sentences for various crimes, was indicated today.

Such reduction, it was pointed out, would permit release of more prisoners on parole from penal institutions and would reduce overcrowding.

Suggestions for additional facilities for caring for prisoners, it was said, will include the carrying out of a building program at the Grafton state farm so as to care for 1,250 prisoners within the next two years and to house an additional 1,250 in the following two years.

Segregation of the "hard-boiled" type of prisoner from other classes, it was indicated, could be effected by the establishment of small-unit dormitories, holding 100 persons, or less, at each institution. Extension of the criminal classification system to the boys' industrial school, Lancaster, was favored.

Besides recommending establishment of a state board of public welfare, empowered to appoint a state welfare director, the commission is expected to recommend that the population at any new institution be limited to 1,000 men; that the penitentiary should not exceed 4,000 men, the Mansfield reformatory, 3,000 and the London prison farm, 2,500 men.

Definite action on recommendations which are to be embodied in its report is scheduled to be taken at the commission's next meeting here August 9.

DOLLAR DROPS IN VALUE FOR U. S. FARMERS

Only Worth 75 Per Cent As Much As It Was In Pre-
War Days, 1909-1914

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The farmer's dollar has sunk to a new low level, with its purchasing power now but 75 percent of pre-war days from 1909 to 1914, the department of agriculture reported today in an analysis of the farm situation.

Despite the fact that general commodity prices have eased off in the last several months, the farmer has not gained purchasing power. Instead, he has lost, say experts of the bureau of agricultural economics.

The situation arises because the sale prices of farm products have slumped to new low levels in July. The two great "money crops" of the nation—wheat and cotton—fell to price levels below the pre-war period for the first time.

Agricultural experts do not attempt to explain the phenomenon of falling farm prices in the face of the worst drought in 50 years or more in a large part of the producing section.

There is indication, however, of farm products moving again to a higher price level. With the drought becoming more serious each day, corn prices have become firmer, as have prices of some other products.

Because of the uncertain trend of price levels, agricultural experts say they cannot estimate the momentary loss of the drought.

With the value of last year's farm crops—December 1 prices, fixed at eight and a half billion dollars, it is declared the cost of the drought may reach $2,000,000, or actually mean no loss at all to the farmers as a whole because of possible increases in prices.

The decrease in the purchasing power of the farmer has been marked during the present summer. It fell to 83.7 percent of pre-war during May, 82.7 percent during June and 74.7 percent in July.

Grain prices as a whole fell to eight percent under pre-war level while cotton and cotton seed was one percent under pre-war and unclassified crops fell to three-fourths 1914 prices. Farm products as a whole bring 11 percent more than from 1909 to 1914, but the farmer pays 49 percent more for his purchases.

Farm wages continued relatively high, being 127 percent above pre-war. They have shown little change during the present summer.

A drop in the retail price of food now is becoming noticeable say the experts, the figures show retail food prices 11 points under July a year ago, while wholesale prices are 13 points less.

RHOAD ISLAND BOY WINNER OF EDISON'S TEST

Arthur O. Williams Named
Brightest Student In U. S.;
Ohio Boy Eighth.

WEST ORANGE, N. J.—Aug. 1.—Arthur O. Williams, Jr., of East Providence, R. I., was today declared the winner in the Thomas A. Edison scholarship for which boys from 48 states and the District of Columbia competed.

The scholarship will provide Williams with a full college education, free of charge.

Previous to the announcement of the winner, the 49 lads, tense with excitement, were taken on an auto tour of the Oranges. They were accompanied by Wilbur Huston of Fort Madison, Wash., last year's winner.

The tour ended at the lawn of the Edison home in Llewellyn Park where Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edison, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edison, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Edison were awaiting the "Nations' brightest."

The award committee, composed of Lewis Perry, Headmaster of Phillips Exeter Academy, Chairman William L. Bryan of Indiana University, Harvey Firestone, Henry Ford, and Hubert S. Howe of Columbia University and worked until nearly dawn today in grading the papers.

Nine youths won honorable mention for the efforts in the examination, which was hailed by contestants and college professors alike as "tough."

In the order announced by Dr. Perry they were as follows:

Royal E. Peake, Detroit; James H. Compton, Jr., Wichita, Kan.; Gordon K. Carter, Charlottesville, Va.; Walter Wrigley, Haverhill, Mass.; Charles H. Clouckey, Landsdowne, Pa.; Frederick C. Rupp, Washington, D. C.; De Wolf Schatzel, Findlay, O.; Gordon K. Burns, Maplewood, N. J.; and C. Dudley Mylchreest, Hartford, Conn.

Dr. Perry announced that no Edison scholarships would be given. The youths awarded the "honorable mention" rating but that instead they would receive scholarship from sources which he could not reveal at the present time.

In announcing Williams as the winner of the Edison scholarship—automatically branding him as the "brightest high school student in the United States"—Dr. Perry stated that his work stood out to a considerable degree over that of the other contestants.

The exact percentage of the contestants were not made public. This afternoon at 4:30 Mayor Walker of New York City is to shake hands with Williams on the steps of the City Hall. The other contestants will also meet the mayor.

Luncheon at the Brooklyn navy yards and inspection of the U. S. Colorado and the dry docks were also on the day's program for the youths.

STORM DELAYS SHIP'S LANDING BY FEW HOURS

Stabilizing Fin Broken; All
Passengers and Officers
Delighted With Trip.

By James L. Kilgallen
ST. HUBERT AIRPORT, Montreal, Que., Aug. 1.—Another brilliant page was written in dirigible history today when the R-100, Great Britain's challenge to Germany's pre-eminence in lighter-than-air navigation, successfully completed a trans-Atlantic flight from Cardington, England, to the St. Hubert Air station near Montreal.

The R-100 was sighted from the airport here at 2:37 o'clock this morning, eastern daylight time, 78 hours and 49 minutes after she left Cardington. Because it was dark at the time, the world's biggest dirigible did not moor to the powerful million dollar mooring tower here until 5:37 a. m., 78 hours and 49 minutes after she departed from Cardington. Until the very last lap of her journey she was making splendid time. Then she encountered damage to the fabric of her stabilizing fin, and stormy weather conditions—a combination of events that forced her to greatly reduce her speed.

Damage to the fin's fabric was negligible, officers of the ship said upon her arrival. Squadron Leader A. S. Booth, commander of the R-100 on the trip, said the big dirigible "came through in fine condition." He characterized the voyage as a "good test flight" and his and other officers interviewed indicated that in their opinion the flight was a success in every respect.

The R-100 is now moored at the airport. She stands on tall masts, 200 feet above the ground—a big, round looking ship, the sun's rays glinting off her dark sides.

The R-100 carried sixty-four persons on the 3,400 mile flight. There were five officers, thirty-two members of the crew and seven observers and officials. This commander, Squadron Leader Booth, although 35 years old, has had 15 years' experience in aviation.

After the giant airship had been safely moored, the chief officers aboard granted a joint interview to the press. Those present were Commander Booth; Wing Commander P. M. Colmore, director of airship development; Sir Dennistoun Burney, director of aircraft development and designer of the R-100; Major G. H. Scott, assistant director of air-craft development and Squadron Leader E. L. Johnston, navigating officer.

Wing Commander Colmore said the damage to the fin was not serious. He said only the fabric had been affected. The temporary repairs which were made while the airship was in flight, will be supplemented by further repairs here. He remarked that the damage to the fin was somewhat similar to that which befell the Graf Zeppelin on one of its westward flights across the Atlantic to Lakehurst, N. J.

MADE GOOD TIME
Sir Dennistoun Burney said that were it not for the fact that bad weather was encountered in the final lap they would have reached St. Hubert's airport at 6 o'clock last night. He declared they made (Turn to page five, please)

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Seeking to better the time of the Graf Zeppelin on its flight around the world, John Henry Mears planned today to hop off tomorrow at dawn in his big Lockheed Vega plane.

The Graf's Record time was 21 days.

The first hop will be to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland. From there Mears plans to fly across the Atlantic to Dublin, Ireland, a distance of 2,100 miles.

Mears' plane will be piloted by Henry J. Brown, winner of the 1929 Los Angeles-Cleveland non-stop air derby.

GERMAN DUO OVER OCEAN

Hirth and Weller Hop Off
From Orkney Island Bound To Chicago.

KIRK WALL, Orkney Islands, Aug. 1.—Wolf Hirth and Oscar Weller, dare devil German aviators braving the Atlantic in their tiny sports plane in a stopover light from Berlin to Chicago, hopped off for Iceland today.

They left here aided by favorable weather, soaring off at 9:40 a. m. (4:40 a. m. Eastern Daylight time) hopeful of reaching Reykjavik sometime late today. The distance of this water hop is approximately 800 miles.

The air ministry informed them that an hourly wind velocity of from ten to fifteen miles might be expected, with visibility generally good, although some mist prevails.

Inclement weather delayed the hopoff from here for several days.

The engine was taken to a water hole just south of the railroad, in Mud Run where a varied demonstration was put on.

Members of the village council trustees of the township and a large number of citizens watched the demonstration.

RHOAD ISLAND BOY WINNER OF EDISON'S TEST

Arthur O. Williams Named
Brightest Student In U. S.;
Ohio Boy Eighth.

WEST ORANGE, N. J.—Aug. 1.—Arthur O. Williams, Jr., of East Providence, R. I., was today declared the winner in the Thomas A. Edison scholarship for which boys from 48 states and the District of Columbia competed.

The scholarship will provide Williams with a full college education, free of charge.

Previous to the announcement of the winner, the 49 lads, tense with excitement, were taken on an auto tour of the Oranges. They were accompanied by Wilbur Auston of Port Madison, Wash., last year's winner.

The tour ended at the lawn of the Edison home in Llewellyn Park where Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edison, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edison, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Edison were awaiting the "Nation's brightest."

The award committee, composed of Lewis Perry, Headmaster of Phillips Exeter Academy, Chairman William L. Bryan of Indiana University, Harvey Firestone, Henry Ford, and Hubert S. Howe of Columbia University and worked until nearly dawn today in grading the papers.

Nine youths won honorable mention for the efforts in the examination, which was hailed by contestants and college professors alike as "tough."

In the order announced by Dr. Perry they were as follows:

Royal E. Peake, Detroit; James H. Compton, Jr., Wichita, Kan.; Gordon K. Carter, Charlottesville, Va.; Walter Wrigley, Haverhill, Mass.; Charles H. Clouckery, Landsdowne, Pa.; Frederick C. Roop, Washington, D. C.; De Wolf Schatzel, Findlay, O.; Gordon K. Burns, Maplewood, N. J.; and C. Dudley Mylchreest, Hartford, Conn.

Dr. Perry announced that no Edison scholarships would be given. The youths awarded the "honorable mention" rating but that instead they would receive scholarship from sources which he could not reveal at the present time.

In announcing Williams as the winner of the Edison scholarship—automatically branding him as the "brightest high school student in the United States"—Dr. Perry stated that his work stood out to a considerable degree over that of the other contestants.

The exact percentage of the contestants were not made public. This afternoon at 4:30 Mayor Walker of New York City is to shake hands with Williams on the steps of the City Hall. The other contestants will also meet the mayor.

Luncheon at the Brooklyn navy yards and inspection of the U. S. Colorado and the dry docks were also on the day's program for the youths.

A blasted romance was in prospect with a report that the parents of Miss Cynthia Stourton had withheld approval of her engagement to Signor Del Agnes, Italian butler of Sir Roland Lindsay at Washington. STORM DELAYS SHIP'S LANDING BY FEW HOURS

Stabilizing Fin Broken; All
Passengers and Officers
Delighted With Trip.

By James L. Kilgallen
ST. HUBERT AIRPORT, Montreal, Que., Aug. 1.—Another brilliant page was written in dirigible history today when the R-100, Great Britain's challenge to Germany's pre-eminence in lighter-than-air navigation, successfully completed a trans-Atlantic flight from Cardington, England, to the St. Hubert Air station near Montreal.

The R-100 was sighted from the airport here at 2:27 o'clock this morning, eastern daylight time, 75 hours and 42 minutes after she left Cardington. Because it was dark at the time, the world's biggest dirigible did not moor to the powerful million dollar mooring tower here until 5:37 a. m., 78 hours and 52 minutes after she departed from Cardington. Until the very last lap of her journey she was making splendid time. Then she encountered damage to the fabric of her stabilizing fin, and stormy weather conditions—a combination of events that forced her to greatly reduce her speed.

Damage to the fin's fabric was negligible, officers of the ship said upon her arrival. Squadron Leader A. S. Booth, commander of the R-100 on the trip, said the big dirigible "came through in fine condition." He characterized the voyage as a "good test flight" and he and other officers interviewed indicated that in their opinion the flight was a success in every respect.

The R-100 is now attached to the mooring mast of St. Hubert's Airport. She stands out horizontally from the top of the mooring mast, 200 feet above the ground—a big, proud looking ship, the sun's rays glinting off her dull sides.

The R-100 carried forty-four persons on the 3,400 mile flight. There were five officers, thirty-two members of the crew and seven observers and officials. Her commander, Squadron Leader Booth, although 35 years old, has had 15 years experience in aviation.

After the giant airship had been safely moored, the chief officers aboard granted a joint interview to the press. Those present were Commander Booth; Wing Commander P. M. Colmore, director of airship development; Sir Dennistoun Burney, director of air-craft development and designer of the R-100; Major G. H. Scott, assistant director of air-craft development and Squadron Leader E. L. Johnston, navigating officer.

Wing Commander Colmore said the damage to the fin was not serious. He said only the fabric had been affected. The temporary repairs which were made while the airship was in flight, will be supplemented by further repairs here. He remarked that the damage to the fin was somewhat similar to that which befell the Graf Zeppelin on one of its westward flights across the Atlantic to Lakehurst, N. J.

MADE GOOD TIME
Sir Dennistoun Burney said that were it not for the fact that bad weather was encountered in the final lap they would have reached St. Hubert's airport at 6 o'clock last night. He declared they made (Turn to page five, please)

TIMBERLAND BURNS NEAR PORTSMOUTH

Fire, Thought Made By Camp-
Fire, Sweeps Northeastern
Part of City.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 1.—Approximately 1,500 acres of timberland had been reduced to ashes today as the result of a fire that started Wednesday noon and swept the northeastern portion of this city. A number of valuable orchards were destroyed.

Although hundreds of homes were threatened by the flames, all escaped damage.

For the third time, the flames were brought under control Thursday night after burning down to the Gallia avenue sidewalk.

State forest rangers, boy scouts and hundreds of volunteers fought the flames day and night. It is thought that the blaze started from a camp fire.

BYRD AND THE POLAR EXPEDITIONS

Chapter IX

Back to School at the Virginia Military Institute and Through Annapolis

THE Virginia Military Institute is the sort of place that virtually guarantees happiness to such a youngster as Byrd was. It stands just within the town of Lexington on a plateau which commands the storied Shenandoah Valley, its buildings gleaming white among the trees as one catches sight of it from a distance. Separated by only a few of Lexington's narrow, quiet streets, is Washington and Lee University, with the tomb of Robert E. Lee. Surrounding the plateau, like the walls of a huge amphitheatre are the rugged peaks of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Dominating all the buildings—so dominating as to awe such a new arrival as young Richard was back in 1903—were the great barracks with walls mellowed by age to a warm, greyish salmon. In front of the barracks was the parade ground, memorial scene of many a trying hour. Directly across the way were the homes of the officers of the school, quaint, charming buildings, and because of the dignities that they held only less impressive than the barracks. Close by, sure to catch the eye of an imaginative boy, was a row of fine old French and English cannon cast in bronze, mementoes of the French and English wars through which the Colonies had struggled to freedom.

It was in this romantic environment that the fourth Richard Byrd lived and climbed from 1904 through 1907 toward the conspicuous maturity which was to be his. Too young to do any very notable thing he contrived to become distinguished among his fellows, an officer in the cadet corps, an athlete, a student whose scholastic record, even if it brought no outstanding praise, was at least acceptable to the most stern instructor. And always that the audacity which had driven him, as a boy under fourteen, to undertake a world encircling tour, drove him forward.

One wonders, indeed, what might have happened if this audacity had been less impelling, for to it and nothing else must be laid the series of misfortunes which reached their curiously fortunate culmination the day he made his epochal flight over the South Pole.

"FOREST ROSE" AT LIBRARY

About eighty years ago, in a day when the "time novel" flourished as a leading type of literature, one of the most prolific writers of popular thrillers was Emerson Bennett. He chose, for the setting of most of his stories, frontier life, and his plots, gathered from the tales of the pioneers, had an historical background for hair-raising adventures. The sales of several of his books were remarkable for the time, but, in later years, Bennett was almost forgotten and the close of his life was spent in a Masonic Home.

"Forest Rose", one of his most popular works, was a story of pioneer days in Ohio, in which the scout, Louis Wetzel, was a leading character. Episodes of Indian days in Fairfield County were told with a fair amount of historical accuracy. The love story of Rose Ferrester, the forest Rose, and Albert Maywood, became as much a part of local tradition as Logan, Cornstalk and other figures of Indian days in Ohio.

In 1902, John Alfred Jacobs, a resident of Fairfield county, published a version of the story in verse, and when the early copies of Bennett's story "Forest Rose" became rare, the book was republished, at Lancaster, and again became available in a small paper bound edition.

The Circleville Public Library has always had many calls for "Forest Rose" and has owned a number of copies of the paper-bound reprint. These proved so popular that they were soon worn to tatters. The last copy purchased was rebound in strong cloth and has given a number of years of steady service.

During the last year "Forest Rose" has come to the attention of a more than local audience. Frank E. Wilson, who has been connected with the Ohio Department of Education for a number of years, has given the story a new life and interest. "With the thought that a story of such merit should not be lost entirely, Mr. Wilson has undertaken to rewrite it, correcting certain historical inaccuracies and filling in certain historical details from contemporary works of established authenticity." One of the additions is an entire chapter of the life of Louis Wetzel, which, with other minor changes, leaves the story essentially the thrilling romance written, by Emerson Bennett, so many years ago. While not a story for any one age, appealing equally to grown-ups and older boys and girls, "Forest Rose", in its new form, has been included in the list of books of the Ohio Pupil's Reading Circle, for pupils of the Eighth Grade.

With other books of the Ohio

Teachers' and Ohio Pupils' Reading Circles, Wilson's Forest Rose has been received at the Circleville Library and is now ready for circulation.

Wilson, who has been connected with the Ohio Department of Education for a number of years, has given the story a new life and interest. With the thought that a story of such merit should not be lost entirely, Mr. Wilson has undertaken to rewrite it, correcting certain historical inaccuracies and filling in certain historical details from contemporary works of established authenticity. One of the additions is an entire chapter of the life of Louis Wetzel, which, with other minor changes, leaves the story essentially the thrilling romance written, by Emerson Bennett, so many years ago. While not a story for any one age, appealing equally to grown-ups and older boys and girls, "Forest Rose", in its new form, has been included in the list of books of the Ohio Pupil's Reading Circle, for pupils of the Eighth Grade.

With other books of the Ohio

Teachers' and Ohio Pupils' Reading Circles, Wilson's Forest Rose has been received at the Circleville Library and is now ready for circulation.

FOREIGN MISSIONS SCHOOL AT LANCASTER ON AUG. 5-9

Dr. Samuel Stagg of the Philippine Islands will be the evening speaker for the Anniversary Day program of the Lancaster School of Foreign Missions at the Lancaster Camp Grounds, August 9. This closes a five days program of intensive study, splendid addresses, discussions and exchange of ideas.

The meeting will be opened on Tuesday morning at 8:45 by Mrs. C. B. Smith, who is again 'Dean of the School'. Mrs. Smith is president of the Columbus district W. F. M. S. and will be remembered for her splendid work during the '60th Anniversary Celebration' in Columbus last October when she had more than 1000 women working under her. Mrs. C. W. Walton of Columbus will have charge of the music.

Mrs. Andrew Mitchell of Newark, corresponding secretary of the eastern division of Ohio Conference, will have the opening devotion using as her theme 'Witnessing'. Rev. Karl E. Alexander, pastor of Oakwood church in Columbus, will have three mornings for the subjects 'Serving Two Masters'.

The Retreat and Consecration Service will be Saturday morning. Mrs. F. E. Reynolds, secretary of literature for Columbus District will again review the study book. All who heard her last year will want to hear her again. The visualization method will be used with Mrs. Chestora McDonald Carr in charge of the dramatization.

District and Conference officers and Missionaries will be given time to tell of their work and the Forum hour at 4 o'clock will be used to discuss problems.

Camp Wesleyan will be under the direction of Mrs. E. F. Andree of Ironton. Mrs. Andree has a vital touch with girls and brings a reaching effect. 'Temples' will be the subject of their devotions and Miss Pearl Stone of Ohio Wesleyan University will have the Bible talks.

Mrs. W. B. Christy of Columbus assisted by Mrs. Carr will give the visualized review of the study book.

With fun and study, hillside sings and earnest devotions, and contacts with earnest women and at least seven missionaries from five different countries, the week can not but be of great benefit to our young people.

Last year Zanesville district dedicated a cottage and this year Portsmouth is dedicating one to the Standard Bearers of that district.

Mrs. F. M. Randolph of New Lexington will again have the Junior Camp and has a better outlined program and more extensive plans than ever before. Not only the Junior leaders but the Juniors will have interesting work. Miss Ursula Tyler of Grove City who returns to the field this fall will give the Junior study book.

All these fine things lead up to the climax—Anniversary Day. Retreat and consecration services, fine talks and demonstrations with the grand finale—Dr. Stagg for the evening address. No more outstanding speaker could be secured to bring an inspiring message for he knows the youth of every part of the world and brings a personal message.

Closing with the 'Commission Service', Dr. Stagg will leave an atmosphere of reverence that will have a lasting impression on our young people.

Every auxiliary should send as many delegates as possible and be sure and have your Standard Bearers and Juniors well represented.

KEEP MILK COWS, SAYS FARM BUREAU

Cows Will Be Selling at Premium in County Because of Shortage, Report.

Shortage of pasture and water are causing hundreds of milk cows in Pickaway-co to be sent to market and sold for beef. The drought in all Southern Ohio, W. Virginia and Kentucky has caused thousands of milk cows in these sections to be marketed, resulting in an over-supply and glutted market. This condition has caused milk cows to sell at minimum price. It is advisable to sell the boarder cows, but where at all possible keep the good milk cows on the farm and buy feed for them.

In a very short time milk cows will be selling at a premium in Pickaway-co due to shortage, says the county farm bureau.

The following is a suggested ration for milk cows and good dairy heifers where roughage of mostly straw, timothy hay or dry pasture is being used:

- 200 lbs. ground corn, or ground corn and cob, or barley.
- 100 lbs. ground oats.
- 100 lbs. wheat bran.
- 200 lbs. linseed oil meal, or soy bean meal.
- 150 lbs. cotton-seed meal.

It is advisable to keep straw on the farm to be used for roughage this winter because of the shortage of fodder and hay.

And From Near-Comedians
This winter suffers a lot from the men who do not know they are comedians.—Shoe and Leather Reports.

BIG AGRICULTURE
Agriculture is becoming big business. This is said not with regard to its turn-over, but in appreciation of its new method.
The Farmers' National Grain Corporation, central marketing co-operative organized by the Federal Reserve Board, is handling 200,000,000 bushels of this year's wheat crop, about one-fourth of the whole. More notable, still, it is getting ready to handle 400,000,000 bushels, or one-half, of next year's crop. It is acquiring the necessary equipment, and has just bought a big private grain firm in Minneapolis.
This means a tremendous expansion of the American co-operative system. It compels new respect for agriculture. It shows ability on the part of American farmers to work together. It also indicates that whatever substantial help American agriculture gets in its dire plight will be the help it provides for itself. Not that the government is unwilling; but agriculture itself, once organized for the job can do it better.

OLIVE OIL FOR MOTORS
Spain for too many olives. Same old farm problems, apparently. One thing olives do is to furnish olive oil. There are not enough people wanting olive oil for their salads or for frying their omelettes, so the producers are asking the government to support experiments which they hope will result in the use of olive oil to lubricate automobiles.
It sounds queer, but some people are actually doing it. A member of the Seville municipal council motored from there to Madrid the other day, using olive oil as the sole lubricant of his car, and consuming about a quart.
A housewife foresees one difficulty in using a vegetable oil rather than a mineral one. Won't it spoil with unpleasant results to the nose? Or will they sterilize it by boiling, or in some other way.

HARD-TIMES HUMOR
Someone inserted a fake ad in a Detroit newspaper saying that 500 men were wanted for the Ford plant, and telling them to report at the address of a certain Ford employee on Drake Avenue. Ten thousand men responded.
They began arriving Saturday night as soon as the Sunday papers went on sale. They filled the street and overflowed on adjacent streets. Hour by hour they kept on coming, hundreds driving in from other cities, hundreds more walking many miles for the chance of work. All were bitterly disappointed. Many were naturally angered by the fraud, and for a while there was fear of violence.
Violence would have been pardonable if the author of that practical joke could have been caught and identified. A spanking, say, with the hands applied by about 100 carefully selected men, lacking other employment.
Practical jokers, anyway, ought to be spanked on general principles.

FACIAL STYLES
Another aftermath of the war is an epidemic of face-changing. It isn't quite an epidemic yet, except at Hollywood, but it may sweep over the country at any time, as so many other Hollywood innovations have done.
They say at least 2,000 filmland stars and would-be stars have had their cheeks lifted, their noses remodeled, their chins built up, their ears tied back, their wrinkles cut out, etc. One face-artist alone, a Russian war surgeon, is credited with 600 of these operations.
The art isn't entirely new. Remember Victor Hugo's "Man Who Laughs"? According to him, there were surgeons in the middle ages who knew how to change the lines of the face. But they did it for mutilation and disguise, or to create clowns who would need no make-up, not for beautification.
We'd all like to be beautiful, even the men-folk. And maybe it's all right to carve beauty on the human face with a scalpel. But suppose faces begin to run in styles, with one type setting the style and the rest of us having to match it? And then maybe the style changing every year?
The way war looks from where we sit right now, the generals win and the people lose.

Lucerne Popular
Sited on placid Lake Lucerne, in full view of the Rigi, Mount Pilatus and many snow-clad Alpine peaks, Lucerne is one of Switzerland's most picturesque towns and a famous tourist center.

"WHERE'S EMILY?"

by CAROLYN WELLS

CHAPTER XLIV.
AUNT JUDY thought the girl was insane. She had caught a wild gleam from Emily's eyes as Stone had lifted the collapsed figure, and she never expected to see the light of intelligence again in her darling's eyes. But she said no word of this, she said no word at all, nor did any of the others. Rodney held Emily's hands in his own, Betty hovered at the head of the couch, and Pete nervously strode up and down the porch looking for the doctor's car. At last he saw the lights gleam through the trees, and Doctor Eaton hurried in.
He said no word but felt Emily's pulse, took her temperature and blood pressure, and examined her heart.
"It isn't a faint," he said, at last. "She is in a coma, induced by some illness or shock. Probably the latter. We can tell nothing about that, and should, she wake, not tell her anything. I'll call an ambulance while you pack a few necessary things. Not much, for we don't know yet what she'll want, and you'll be back and forth continually anyway."
So Pearl and Aunt Judy went off to pack a bag for Emily, and Betty sat still watching the face of Doctor Eaton as he watched the quick spasmodic breathing of his patient.
Rodney, rapt in his own thoughts, which were chaotic, continued to kneel by the side of the sofa where he had sat so long waiting for Emily.
And now she was there, there, in front of him, and he could not speak to her, could not tell her how dear she was and how glad he was to see her again—his thoughts became incoherent.
Pete Gibby studied Emily's face. Not exactly thinner, it had a drawn and haggard look as of one who had suffered poignantly. Her hair was as she usually wore it, though showing slight signs of a lack of care.
Her hands seemed whiter than usual, and the finger nails were a little uncurled, but not much; to Pete's eyes she seemed almost the same as usual.
But when at last she opened her eyes there was an involuntary sound of grief or amazement from nearly every one present.
For her eyes held no intelligence, no recognition or understanding.
They closed again at once, and Doctor Eaton said kindly:
"Don't make too much of that; it may all pass and soon, now that she is with us again. The child has had some terrible, some fearful shock or succession of shocks. She has suffered no maltreatment, she hasn't a bruise or a scratch, nor is she undernourished. But we must curb our natural curiosity and devote all our energies to restoration before we question or disturb her in any way."
"Yes, said Rodney, reverently bending over the hands he still held tightly clasped in his own.
"Get up, Sayre," said the doctor bluntly but gently. "We must take her away now, but remember it is for her own good and probably to save her life or reason."
"All right," he said and rose to his feet, relinquishing Emily's hands, which fell lifelessly down.
"Take this, Sayre," directed the doctor, removing the diamond necklace and passing it over.
Sayre took it mechanically and was putting it in his pocket when Pete took it from him.
"Let me have it, son," he said, and with the same air of not knowing just what he was doing, Rodney obediently handed it over.
"I'll get Aunt Judy to put it in the safe," Gibby said, noticing quietly that the two ends were tied together with a black silk thread. The ends left by the removal of the six stones now in the possession of the police as evidence.
At the thought Pete Gibby turned cold all over. The police were waiting the return of Emily Duane to arrest her for the murder of Pauline Pennington!
He fairly pushed the thought out of his brain, and then the ambulance arrived and Emily was carefully laid in it and taken to the hospital.
To the hospital at last, where she had started to go nearly a week ago and would only arrive tonight!
How strange everything was. Fleming Stone watched everything and said almost nothing.
He and Doctor Eaton had had a few whispered words and a few silent nods of understanding and agreement, and then the doctor got into the ambulance himself and was driven off.
"Let's go over," said Betty, and she and Pete and Rodney started off.
Aunt Judy and Fleming Stone remained behind.
"Don't cry," he said, as the tears began to come.
"No," she smiled, brushing them away. "And they're tears of joy, anyway. Emily's back! We need not say 'Where's Emily?' any more, we know where she is. I am sure she'll get well. She's such a fine, strong girl, and now, with nothing to trouble or worry her, she's bound to get all right soon. Don't you think so?"
"Yes," said Fleming Stone, and truthfully, for he thought the chances were in the girl's favor.
At the hospital, Emily was put to bed in the best available room, nurses were detailed, and Doctor Eaton held consultation with his colleagues.
They all agreed that Emily's condition was brought about by shock of some frightening nature, and concluded that nothing definite could be done until she regained consciousness.
She lay quietly, for the most part, though now and then her hands would twitch, or she would give a low moan as if in mental anguish.
The head nurse, Miss Holcomb, came into the waiting room to talk to Betty and the two men, who sat waiting for news.
She said in a kindly way.
"Miss Duane may stay as she is now all night—probably will—so I think you had all better go home. If there is any reason to do so, I'll call you on the telephone."
"All right," Betty said, somewhat relieved by the nurse's calm acceptance of the situation. "Come on, Pete, come on, Rodney, let's go. We can come over in the morning, nurse."
"Come whenever you like, but of course, I can't promise you'll see the patient."
"Tell me, nurse," Betty coaxed, "have you ever seen just such a case before? Exactly like this, I mean."
"I can't tell that until I know what ails her. I've seen bad shock cases, and if this is a shock case she'll likely come out of it all right."
"Yes, said Rodney, reverently

Classes Under Water
At the University of Miami students of marine biology have laboratory work under water. Special constructed boats with glass bottoms are used to make trips to the marine gardens, where the students can see how the creatures that live in the ocean exist. On these expeditions the attire consists of bathing suits and shoes and a diving helmet. The necessary supply of oxygen is received by means of pumps on the boat.

"Flat-Foot" Is Often Cause Of Aches

Many Supposed Organic Troubles Have Been Traced to Weakened Arches, Says Authority

By R. S. COPELAND, M.D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ANYTHING that interferes with the natural and free use of the feet in walking is bound to cause all manner of disagreeable symptoms. If your foot is thrown out of its natural position, strain is bound to be the result. Such strain is capable of causing pain extending anywhere from the foot itself, through the leg and into the back.

Many a person has believed himself to be suffering from rheumatism, or even some sort of kidney or spinal trouble, when these organs and parts are really perfectly normal. He is merely paying the penalty of walking on a foot which has become too weakened in certain parts of its delicate structure to perform its function properly.

"Flat-foot" is the common name given this trouble. It is a displacement of the bones of the foot which receive the weight of the body when standing. As a result the arch of the foot is depressed or flattened.

There are many causes for this condition. Chief of these are improperly fitted shoes. They may be shoes with excessively high heels, or narrow or short shoes, or shoes which do not give necessary support to highly arched insteps.

Another cause for flat-foot is the turning of the feet outward in walking. Weakened muscles and ligaments due to exhausting illness, poor health, old age, rapid growth in a child, over-exhaustion, prolonged standing on hard floors, corns and bunions and specific diseases—all these are factors in producing flat-foot.

The first measure to take in the treatment of flat-foot is to get properly adjusted shoes. As a matter of fact, foot discomfort from any cause is likely to disappear if the shoes are correctly fitted.

Everybody should cultivate correct attitude in standing and walking. It is a good thing to develop the feet by throwing the weight of the body frequently upon the outer side of the foot, over the heel. One should walk with the feet held parallel and pointed forward, with the weight on the outer side.

Every sensible person will give close attention to the selection and fit of his shoes and to the cultivation of a proper attitude in standing and walking. He must do this if he is to avoid foot trouble.

You take all sorts of trouble in the selection of a hat. You study "models" and "styles" and fairly suffer until the purchase has been determined upon.

How much care do you take in selecting your shoes? You should take pains because your comfort and health depend upon properly fitted shoes. Please don't forget this.

Theatres

AT THE GRAND
"The Big Party," a carload of fun with a splendid cast led by Sue Carol, plays the Grand theatre Friday and Saturday. One of the finest casts of recent pictures is enrolled in this production.
Two new song hits, "Good For Nothing But Love" and "Bluer Than Blue Over You," are heard for the first time in this picture.
The eighth chapter of "The Jade Box" is on the program Friday.

AT THE CLIFTONA
Folks who like their thrills hot and different could have no complaint last night as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Sea Bat" unrolled itself across the screen of the Cliftona theatre.
"The Sea Bat" is full of the action of the sea, both on its tropical shores, and above and below its waves. It is to be doubted if there has been any recent cinematic thrill to equal the fight under water between John Miljan and Nils Asther, and the fatal struggle of Asther against that strange menace, new to pictures, the giant two ton ray, or sea bat.

Raquel Torres is excellent as the little Spanish girl who, after the death of her lover, offers to marry any man who will kill the sea bat. Villainous Juan, played by Miljan, is the leader of those who take her at her word.

Then her hardness softens when the minister comes in the monthly boat, the minister who was to have married her. And the plot gets complicated when it is discovered that the minister is really an escaping ex-convict from Devil's Island. And still more complicated when Juan and his villainous pals plan to deliver him back to his prison for the big reward.

AT THE METROPOLITAN
Pete Morrison, husky cowboy who appears in "Beyond the Rio Grande," the Big 4 Film Corporation all-dialogue western showing at the Metropolitan theatre will find himself commanded by some young lady one of these days to show her how to tie her 1930 scarf. He wears his hanky just the way Paris decrees young ladies should wear their scarfs—under the ears. Pete and the other cowboys have been wearing their hankies that way a long time. They could show the French dressmakers a thing or two, they could! And who made the colored handkerchief famous if not the cowboys?

Barbara Stanwyck once gave me an armful of roses. She was on her way to Hollywood to try out for a movie career, and as she boarded the train she handed me her flowers because "they'd die on the train."

Here's my chance to give Barbara back her roses—with all the words I know. In "Ladies of Leisure," her first really important picture, she reaches the front rank of talkie stars in one amazing bound.

BRILLIANT WORK

What she does with the role of Kay Arnold, a "Lady of Leisure" who becomes an artist's model for purposes of working on the artist, shows that she only needed a part that she could get her teeth into to come through. In "The Locked Door" she had a role that a casting director could have filled by reaching in a hat, and her performance went unnoticed.

People were beginning to ask whatever became of Barbara Stanwyck, the girl who was rushed to Hollywood after her hit in the stage play "Burlesque" and then faded away.

They won't ask anymore. Her work in this picture has been rewarded with a three-year starring contract with Columbia, and that oughtn't to drive any one mad.

Did you ever stop to think

EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Okla.

CHARLES A. STAUFFER, GENERAL MANAGER OF THE PHOENIX (ARIZONA) REPUBLICAN, SAYS:
"Did you ever stop to think how utterly helpless and useless one would be, if he could be, independent of fellow men, the people that live in a community? Each individual is but a part of a large number of persons making up a community, each and all having common interests in common duties and common responsibilities for the many human problems the community has to solve and care for all of the time."

"Then the person who attempts to live in a community, getting out of it what he can and contributing nothing to it, is a parasite. Such person is selfish and selfishness is the Mother of failure."

"Unselfishness, giving time and money to community problems, brings rich reward in self-happiness and self-growth."

"The sum total of human happiness is measured by the degree of helpfulness and unselfishness of the members, individually and collectively, of our community or state, our nation."

"DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK THAT YOU CANNOT ENJOY SUCCESS IN A COMMUNITY UNLESS THE COMMUNITY ENJOYS SUCCESS? OTHERS MUST BE SUCCESSFUL BEFORE YOU CAN EXPECT TO INDIVIDUALLY SUCCEED. DO YOU EVER ASK YOURSELF, 'WHAT AM I DOING TO MAKE THE COMMUNITY IN WHICH I LIVE A BETTER PLACE FOR MY FAMILY AND MY FELLOW MEN?'"

State Fair Prospects

Director Perry L. Green announces that everything indicates that the exhibits through out the 1930 Fair will surpass the ones in 1929. Early entries have increased over last year. Far more space is already sold than at this time last year. The light legged horse fans are donating $10,000 to their own show. Polo games, with teams of national reputation; aviation stunts such as blowing up forts, triple parachute jumps, etc.; team pulling contests; fireworks, entertaining spectacles, and acrobatic stunts are only part of the entertainment features.

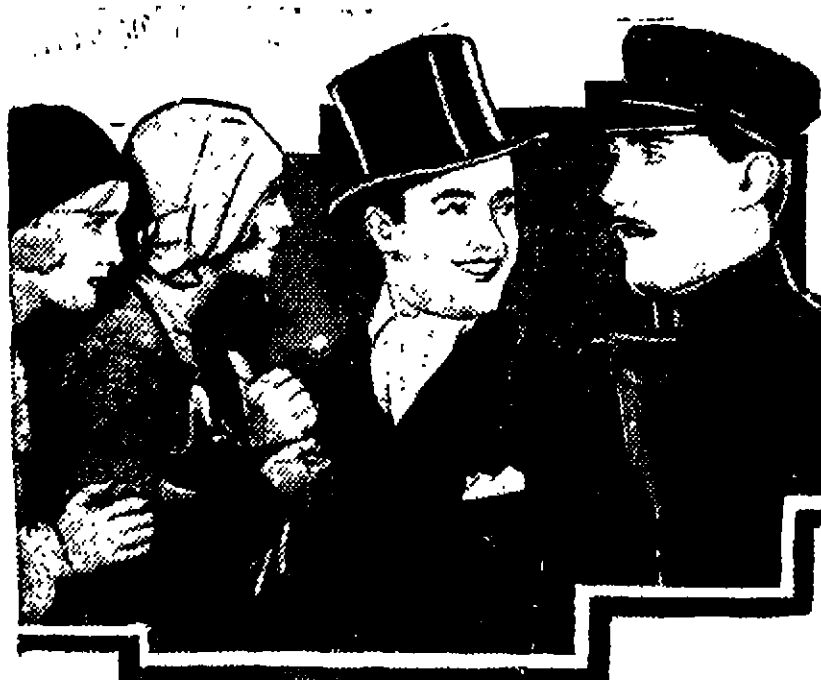

The Junior Fair, including Boy Scouts from Kentucky, West Virginia and Ohio, will entertain and give instructions. The Rural Community Playhouse Building of last year will be filled with airplanes while the old time fiddling and dancing will take place in a tent, over by the lake, near the place where the fishermen will try their luck casting. There are 299 race horses entered in the early stake entries. Many of the departments of state government will make exhibits. Favorable reports are coming in from the livestock departments. Ohio State has the world's largest sheep show, and also the Percheron and Belgian shows. The machinery space is being taken rapidly.

The total premiums exceed $156,000 this year.

"Coon Chase" Now a Popular Sport

A few years ago, the "coon chase" was the sport of the few. Today Ohio is said to be "coon dog crazy." In many counties coon dogs are on the tax duplicate as personal property. In some counties there is more money invested in good "coon dogs" than in good horses. It is a sport the farmer hunters enjoy. Coon dogs which sell for $150 to $300 in Ohio are common these days. And while they can be used in hunting coons for their pelts during the open season as well as for the sport of a coon hunt; the "coon dog" is used, throughout the summer and spring, and early fall, in "coon chases" where a coon is never killed. Here he competes with other dogs on his ability to trail and find a tree coon. The coon is first led over the course by the handlers and chained high in a tree. The dogs are then released in a pack and judged on their abilities to run the course and find the coon. The national Leafy Oak Coon trails, the larg-

Live Bait Seaside

There is every indication that live bait dealers in Ohio will find it necessary to devise ways and means of securing minnows other than by seining creeks and stream according to sportsmen's organizations in all parts of Ohio. Fishermen report a serious scarcity of minnows and natural food in many of the creeks and smaller streams in Ohio. The lack of food means a shortage of bass, or half-starved and small bass in many streams, bass fishermen declare. In other states conservation officials point out that live bait dealers can raise more minnows in private pools and at less cost than they can catch in public waters. Private minnow pools would be money makers for the owners, many sportsmen believe.

Fair Facts.

The Ohio State Fair will be held August 25th to August 30th, 1930 in Columbus. Hundred of thousands of people established a new all-time record for attendance last year. The 1930 exposition is even more worthy of your patronage.

Education is the keynote of the many exhibits located on the Ohio State Fair Grounds.

Over one hundred and fifty acres are covered by this vast plant.

Horticulture and Agriculture departments of this Exposition compare favorably with those of any fair in America.

Intense interest on the part of the younger generation makes the Junior Fair a high light of the entire week's program.

Over $150,000 will be dispersed in premium offerings at the 1930 Exposition.

Six days and nights of entertaining and educational events are scheduled for the week of August 25th.

Twenty-five large permanent buildings house the major departments of the Ohio State Fair.

The average height maintained throughout the flight was 1,500 feet and the total time in the air was 78 hours and 52 minutes.

CHEESE MAKERS USE AID OF UNIVERSITY

Problem of Getting Holes In Swiss Cheese Requires Government Aid.

That old problem of getting the proper kind of holes in a Swiss cheese has prompted 18 cheese makers in Tuscarawas and Holmes counties to turn to the United States department of Agriculture and the extension service of the Ohio State University for help.

In these two counties are 27 cheese factories. Their operators are Amish, all are either Swiss by birth or sons of Swiss, says Don Kochheiser, specialist in dairy technology for the university. From these factories three or four million pounds of cheese are produced annually.

The problem of improving these cheeses was taken up with the university and federal government over a year ago. Since then the federal department has furnished to 18 of the factories cultures which, when added to the milk products, aid greatly in controlling the size of the "eyes" in the cheeses. The cultures, according to Kochheiser, produce gas under certain conditions and temperatures which forms the holes. The flavor of the cheese depends to a large degree on the uniformity of these cultures and manufacturing methods.

Swiss cheese manufacture is one business that does not seem to respond to large scale methods, at least all attempts to manufacture in large lots have met with failure, the dairy specialist says. Most of the factories are operated by one man; some have two or three sides. The reason for this, he explains, is due to the need for quick manufacture immediately after the milk is made. If milk must be procured from too large a radius, the process is delayed and the quality of the product suffers.

GIRL SUSTAINS BADLY CUT FOOT

Catherine Hulse, R. F. D. this city, was taken to Berger hospital Friday morning by Dr. D. V. Courtwright suffering from a cut in the bottom of her left foot. While playing yesterday she stepped on a nail. She is being given treatment for tetanus at the hospital.

CLINIC IS WORK OF OHIO HEALTH

The diagnostic chest clinic to be held in Williamsport, August 5, and Ashville, August 6, is one of the activities of the State Department of Health where the work of the public health officials are coordinated with the family physician to bring about better results by getting patients to his physician at the earliest possible time.

The need of finding the unrecognized cases has not been especially stressed except in the admonition to secure an early diagnosis. This has been complicated by the fact that most patients do not seek the advice of their physician until they were an advanced case, and thus the general public could not visualize tuberculosis in its early stages. The question of an early diagnosis especially with respect to the contact or suspected cases does not seem to have had its full share of attention. All public health officials and others interested in the prevention and control of tuberculosis have agreed that if all cases of tuberculosis were brought early under proper medical care the prevention and ultimate elimination of the disease would be a matter of only a few years.

That there are unrecognized cases of tuberculosis in every community is attested by the fact that only a small proportion of the tuberculosis are under medical supervision. This is especially true with children. Modern thought, supported by much research, is that tuberculosis is a childhood infection and an adult disease. Mild infection in childhood may lie dormant for years only to produce active tuberculosis through lowered resistance caused by dietary deficiencies and such diseases as diabetes, measles, influenza, typhoid fever, pneumonia, etc.

Massive infection in infancy or childhood is usually followed by an acute form of the disease with a high death rate. This is explained by the fact that during the first few years of life little or no resistance exists.

IN AND ABOUT THE STATE HOUSE

A Department of News Service and Cooperation for Herald Readers

Agricultural and Conservation Interest in the Ohio Department of Agriculture.

State Fair Prospects

Director Perry L. Green announces that everything indicates that the exhibits through out the 1936 Fair will surpass the ones in 1929. Early entries have increased over last year. Far more space is already sold than at this time last year. The light legged horse fans are donating $10,000 to their own show. Polo games, with teams of national reputation; aviation stunts such as blowing up forts, triple parachute jumps, etc.; team pulling contests; fireworks, entertaining spectacles, and acrobatic stunts are only part of the entertainment features.

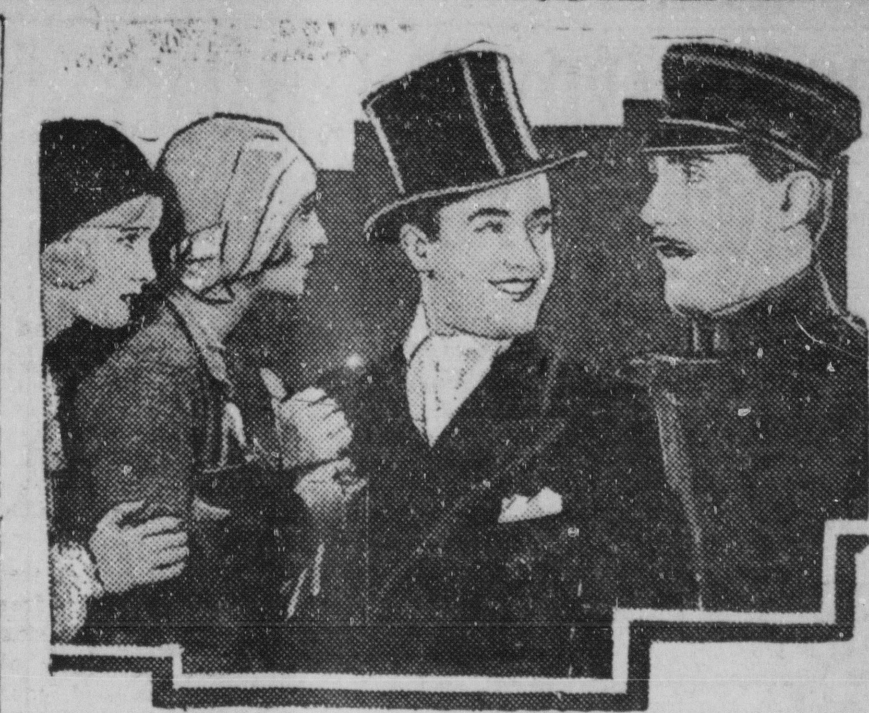

The Junior Fair, including Boy Scouts from Kentucky, West Virginia and Ohio, will entertain and give instructions. The Rural Community Playhouse Building of last year will be filled with airplanes while the old time fiddling and dancing will take place in a tent over by the lake, near the place where the fishermen will try their luck casting. There are 299 race horses entered in the early stake entries. Many of the departments of state government will make exhibits. Favorable reports are coming in from the livestock departments. Ohio State has the world's largest sheep show, and also the Percheron and Belgian shows. The machinery space is being taken rapidly.

The total premiums exceed $156,000 this year.

"Coon Chase" Now a Popular Sport

A few years ago, the "coon chase" was the sport of the few. Today Ohio is said to be "coon dog crazy." In many counties coon dogs are on the tax duplicate as personal property. In some counties there is more money invested in good "coon dogs" than in good horses. It is a sport the farmer hunters enjoy. Coon dogs which sell for $150 to $300 in Ohio are common these days. And while they can be used in hunting coons for their pelts during the open season as well as for the sport of a coon hunt; the "coon dog" is used, throughout the summer and spring, and early fall, in "coon chases" where a coon is never killed. Here he competes with other dogs on his ability to trail and find a treed coon. The coon is first led over the course by the handlers and chained high in a tree. The dogs are then released in a pack and judged on their abilities to run the course and find the coon. The national Leafy Oak Coon trails, the larg-

Live Bait Scare

There is every indication that live bait dealers in Ohio will find it necessary to devise ways and means of securing minnows other than by seining creeks and stream according to sportsmen's organizations in all parts of Ohio. Fishermen report a serious scarcity of minnows and natural food in many of the creeks and smaller streams in Ohio. The lack of food means a shortage of bass, or half-starved and small bass in many streams, bass fishermen declare. In other states conservation officials point out that live bait dealers can raise more minnows in private pools and at less cost than they can catch in public waters. Private minnow pools would be money makers for the owners, many sportsmen believe.

Fair Facts.

The Ohio State Fair will be held August 25th to August 30th, 1936 in Columbus. Hundred of thousands of people established a new all-time record for attendance last year. The 1936 exposition is even more worthy of your patronage.

Education is the keynote of the many exhibits located on the Ohio State Fair Grounds.

Over one hundred and fifty acres are covered by this vast plant.

Horticulture and Agriculture departments of this Exposition compare favorably with those of any fair in America.

Intense interest on the part of the younger generation makes the Junior Fair a high light of the entire week's program.

Over $150,000 will be dispersed in premium offerings at the 1936 Exposition.

Six days and nights of entertaining and educational events are scheduled for the week of August 25th.

Twenty-five large permanent buildings house the major departments of the Ohio State Fair.

KINGSTON

From among six applicants Paul Garret was chosen to represent Kingston high school orchestra as a member of Wainwright All State Boys' Band at the Ohio State Fair this fall. Paul will blow a bass horn and on August 21st will enter a three days' rehearsal at the State Fair grounds before the opening day. After the State Fair Paul expects to blow a horn with the Laurelville band at the Fall Pumpkin shows.

splendid time over the ocean. Asked concerning the commercial possibilities of such a flight, Sir Dennistour said:

"It will require an airship double the size of the R-100 with an average speed of 85 miles per hour before we can realize the full commercial possibilities of lighter-than-air craft."

Wing Commander Colmore refuted reports that engine trouble had been experienced. He said there were no worries about the six Rolls Royce engines at any time during the trip.

"From England to the Canadian shore it was the most comfortable crossing I have ever had," he said. "We did not run into a single bump on the way over. The bumps started registering at Father Point, Quebec. It was in this region that the fin fabric became damaged."

It was estimated by Squadron Commander Booth that the total mileage covered on the voyage from Cardington to Montreal, following the great north circle route was 3,364 miles. This included, he said, the cruising about last night over the airport waiting for dawn to provide light for the mooring operations. The average height maintained throughout the flight was 1,500 feet and the total time in the air was 78 hours and 52 minutes.

There were only nine hours of favorable winds during which time the ship made more than 70 miles per hour. Of a total of 30 tons of fuel, 5 tons remained when the R-100 came to rest at St. Hubert.

CONTAINER CORPORATION CREW COPS CONTEST IN 7TH CANTO

Ray Brungs Plenty Tough For Grocers To Solve Handing Out Only Seven Bingles Through Scrap; Eight Errors By Groccymen Don't Help Either.

The Container Corporation of America, commonly known as the straw-board gang, certainly did put the bug on the Independent Grocers at Mason's field Thursday evening when they gave them a scorching. The score was 6 to 2.

In the middle of the game the hot makers started pounding the ball all over the lot, and the Groccymen became nervous, misjudged balls, fumbled and made all kinds of errors.

Neither team did nothing but pop flies until the fourth, as a matter of fact neither team connected for a single hit until the fourth, when Lawhorn reached sacks through a fumble of Mettler, followed by Ray Brungs, who laid a nice hit in center field, and Al Reid followed and hit a hard grounder to the pitcher who fumbled and the bases were loaded. Walter Brungs came to bat and popped up, and Red Lawhorn was put out on third when he was caught off base. However Groom came to the bat and drove R. Brungs across the plate for the first run.

The Groccers came to bat and Duetz Lane reached the sacks safely, stole second, was driven to third by Mettler and came home on a passed ball and the score was 1-1.

The straw board gang were not through under any circumstance, as they came back in the sixth and

GEHRIG POUNDS PILL AS YANKS EDGE RED SOX

Morgan's 21st Homer Defeats Tigers; Earnshaw Defeats Washington.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The king is dead; long live the king was the cry some of the more zealous admirers of Lou Gehrig sent up today, and while they may be a little hasty quite a few monarchs have been known as King Lou. Anyway it is high time for Emperor Ruth to take deep counsel with himself and launch an attack that will dissipate the rebellion that threatens his tottering throne. For Mr. Gehrig went out again yesterday and won for the Yankees against the Red Sox 14 to 13 with a walk, a sacrifice, two doubles and a home run. The latter was No. 33 for Lou. The great man, Ruth, remained in his great slump and now Lou is only three blasts behind the Babe. Of course Ruth still has a chance, in fact one recalls in 1927 as late as Labor Day Lou had 46 homers and George 45 but when the melancholy days of late September showed past the great one had 60 and Prince Louis was buried under the autumn leaves with only 47.

The world champions A's make a sweep of the two-game series with the ambitious Senators, grabbing it 4 to 3 as George Earnshaw distributed only four hits in innings and Lefty Grove none in the ninth. The Athletics are now eight full games ahead of Washington.

Heavy swatting by Klein and O'Doul ended the Phillies latest losing streak with Philadelphia lowering the Robins 12 to 7. Sweetland, Philly hurler, got two bingle-bangles.

Eddie Morgan's homer No. 21 with a man on in the ninth snatched it for Cleveland, 5 to 3 from Detroit.

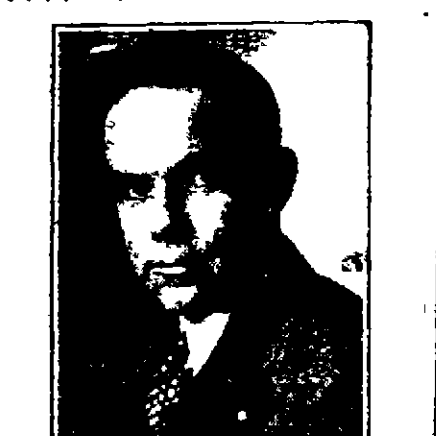

Larry French captured his own game for the Pirates by socking a double in the ninth with two on. Pittsburgh celebrating over St. Louis, 4 to 3.

Gray wasn't so good and the White Sox took the opener from the Browns 10 to 2 and Ted Lyons came back in the tea tilt to win a superb pitching duel with Coffman, 1 to 0. Lyons and Coffman each yielded four hits, two Brownie errors aiding in the Sox triumph.

DOGGY WARD'S TEAM HANDS WOODMEN NINE GOOSE-EGGS

Owens Hurls Shutout Ball, Granting Only Five Bingles, In Tilt At Utilities Field Thursday evening; Errors Help Scoring of Ward-men.

Doggy Ward's recreation ball outfit played well at Utilities Thursday evening and with Red Owens hurling steady ball with fine support, the Modern Woodmen were handed a shutout to the tune of 9-0.

The Wardmen started pounding the apple in the opening session and with the center-fielder dropping one ball and badly misjudging a second, the deputy sheriff's gang counted five tallies. The outcome of the contest was never in doubt after this frame for Owens was tough with only four hits being gleaned from his offerings during the entire nine sessions. Most of the balls hit were pops with the outfield and the third baseman and shortstop coming in for plenty of credit for snapping up each chance which came their way.

The feature play of the day was by Pinky Wilson who went back into left field to pull down a hard smash which had a long distance ticket on it.

The Wards added one run in the third frame, came back with two in the sixth and completed their scoring in the seventh with one marker.

Buck Hutchinson led the hitters of both teams when he connected for three safe hits, one of which was a double and another a triple.

Not an error was scored on the Ward team while the Woodmen were guilty of seven.

"Lion Sermon Day"
Some 300 years ago an Englishman traveling through a wild country suddenly met a lion. The Englishman, without weapons, fell on his knees, promising to help the church if ever he got back home alive. He did, and left a sum of money to a London church, with the sole condition of a yearly sermon. To this day, once a year, is "Lion Sermon Day" in this church.

CONTAINER CORPORATION CREW COPS CONTEST IN 7TH CANTO

Ray Brungs Plenty Tough For Grocers To Solve Handing Out Only Seven Bingles Through Scrap; Eight Errors By Groccymen Don't Help Either.

The Container Corporation of America, commonly known as the straw-board gang, certainly did put the bug on the Independent Grocers at Mason's field Thursday evening when they gave them a scorching. The score was 6 to 2.

In the middle of the game the box makers started pounding the ball all over the lot, and the Groccymen became nervous, misjudged balls, fumbled and made all kinds of errors.

REFUND CHECKS SENT FARMERS

Checks totaling $1849.30 were mailed from the Pickaway County Farm Bureau office to Farm Bureau members who purchased spring fertilizer. This was a five percent reduction on the retail price of fertilizer and a patronage refund of ten percent, making a total of fifteen percent off purchase price.

About the middle of the spring fertilizer purchasing season, fertilizer companies reduced their retail price five percent; rather than change prices in the middle of the season after many farmers had placed their orders at the old price, it was agreed that the reduction would be applied to the entire tonnage and distributed with the patronage refund at the end of the season. Thus giving each purchaser the same benefit.

Checks were written to 160 farmers who purchased fertilizer, ranging in amounts of 33c to $74.82. The largest check was written to C. B. Teegardin of Madison-twp and was written for $74.82.
